Joe's food, your setting, less of your time

Appley already has what most cafés pay for: a view, passing walkers and cyclists, and a chef with a clear idea of what he wants to cook. This pilot turns that into a focused breakfast and brunch offer, and takes the launch work off your desk.

Joe leads the food A compact menu of quality breakfast and brunch dishes, built on a small set of shared ingredients so it stays fast and consistent on a busy morning.	IsleConnect runs the launch Costings, supplier price checks, staff briefing cards, photography, posts, the campaign page and a weekly results summary.	You make the key decisions Prices, spend and what gets published. About three and a half hours of your time across the whole pilot.

What the pilot is designed to answer

- Does a compact, well-presented breakfast and brunch menu bring in more customers during the morning service, and at what spend?
- Can the kitchen deliver it consistently at busy times, with food costs close to the costed figures?
- Do walkers, cyclists and local residents respond to the campaign, and how do they hear about it?
- Which outside-space improvements are worth making next, based on how customers actually use the space?

What has changed since “Appley Gets Saucy”

Previous proposal	This version
Retro menu (SPAM® hash, corned beef cakes, tasting board) as the starting point	Joe's breakfast and brunch menu leads. Retro ideas become occasional chef's specials where Joe wants them.
Several new recipes launched together	Eleven core dishes built on shared ingredients, with Joe making the final selection
Fixed August–September calendar	A timetable that starts when you agree and the kitchen is ready
Trail founder stop at the centre	The café offer works on its own. “Walk the story. Taste the memory.” can be added later, once a reviewed story and a checked walking section are ready.
Owner involved throughout	A defined split of responsibilities, with you approving decisions rather than doing the work

A quality breakfast, done consistently

A full English for the morning, a signature brunch, and lunch rolls from the same quality bread, eggs and condiments.

This is a starting structure for Joe to shape, not a final menu. Costs use current published UK prices (September 2026), including a 5% allowance for trim and waste. Test prices are set against local cafés: the Island full breakfasts we found range from £8.50 to £14, and comparable south-coast seafront cafés charge £15–£16.

Menu family	Dish	Plate cost	Test price	Food cost*	Gross profit

*Food cost as a percentage of the net sale price, excluding 20% VAT. Gross profit is the net sale price minus plate cost, before labour, energy and overheads. Hot food and anything eaten on the premises is standard-rated for VAT. The café's accountant should confirm how cold takeaway rolls are treated.

Why the numbers work

Food cost ranges from 13% to 33%. The vegetarian and hash dishes carry the higher-cost meat plates, so across a typical mix the menu should sit close to 25–30%. Bacon and sausages are costed at premium supermarket prices. Buying from an Island butcher on trade terms may cost less, and Joe's invoices will replace these figures before launch.

Joe's first working session will set

- the final six to eight core dishes
- exact portions and plating
- suppliers, including Island producers
- one timed trial service before launch

Few ingredients, many dishes

Every dish draws on the same core stock. That keeps ordering simple, cuts waste and makes service faster.

What the shared base achieves

- Nine of the eleven dishes use eggs, so one reliable egg supplier matters more than any other decision.
- Muffins, rolls and sourdough each have a clear job, so no bread line exists for a single dish.
- One hollandaise batch serves both Benedicts. A 330g batch costs about £2.70 to make.
- New specials are tested one at a time before they add permanent stock or prep.

Island suppliers to approach

Island Foods, Ryde	Butcher with wholesale and catering supply
Hazelgrove Farm Eggs	Free-range eggs, near Ryde
Isle of Wight Cheese Co.	Island cheese for the ploughman's
Wild Oak Farm	Sausages
The Garlic Farm	Condiments and relishes

Named Island producers also give the menu and posts an honest local story, once supply is confirmed.

One chef-approved record per dish

Joe approves each dish once: ingredients, portions, supplier costs, method, allergens, price and a reference photograph. From that single record, IsleConnect's AI-assisted workflow produces the costing, prep sheet, staff briefing card, menu wording and social copy, and flags any dish whose cost moves when a supplier price changes. Joe keeps authority over recipes and food information, and the owner over prices and publication. Every output is checked by a person before use.

You decide. We do the work.

You stay in charge of the business. The launch work, the chasing and the reporting move to Joe and IsleConnect, with clear points where your approval is needed.

Area	Joe	IsleConnect	Owner
Menu and recipes	Chooses dishes, sets portions, runs the trial service	Records each dish and produces costings and prep sheets	Approves the final menu
Prices	Supplies invoice costs	Models prices and margins against local cafés	Set s prices
Suppliers	Chooses products and quality	Tracks prices and flags changes affecting a dish	Approves new accounts
Food safety and allergens	Owens the allergen record and kitchen controls	Formats briefing cards and menu allergen information for checking	Confirms as food business operator
Staff briefing	Briefs the kitchen	Prepares front-of-house cards and a simple order tally	Informed
Photography and content	Plates dishes and explains them in his own words on camera	Captures, edits and prepares posts, reel, QR card and campaign page	Approves before publication
Publishing	–	Schedules approved posts during the pilot	Owens the accounts
Results	Notes prep effort and waste	Collects the figures and sends a one-page weekly summary	Reads it, and decides what happens next

Your time commitment

Kick-off 90 min Agree the objective, service period, budget limits and success measures with Joe.	Weekly sign-off 15 min Read a one-page summary and approve any prices or posts that need your decision.	End review 45 min Review the results and decide what to keep, change or grow.
---	---	---

About three and a half hours in total over the six weeks compared with running a menu launch and campaign yourself.

Improve it in stages, as demand shows

Customers come to Appley for the view, so the outside space matters. Spend in steps, and only move to the next stage when the evidence supports it.

1 TEST	Make the offer visible A pavement A-board, QR table cards that link to the menu and campaign page, and three large planters to define the seating area. Record which tables fill first, when, and in what weather. Move on when outside tables are regularly full in the morning service.	£440–£1,290 A-board, 50 QR cards, 3 planters
2 COMFORT	Make people stay Navy-and-white striped seat pads for 24 chairs, blankets for cool mornings, a weatherproof cushion store, and four commercial parasols with bases. Add windbreak screens if wind is the main reason customers move inside. Move on when customers stay longer outside and ask about later opening.	£1,220–£2,370 higher figure includes four windbreak screens
3 EXTEND	Longer hours, only if they pay Festoon lighting for later service: a solar set to test the effect, or mains IP65 festoons with a new outdoor socket installed by a qualified electrician. Electric infrared heaters are preferable to gas, which costs about £4 an hour to run and draws growing criticism. Go ahead when the extra hours can cover staff, energy and stock costs.	£140 solar festoon test £350–£1,420 mains festoons and socket, up to two electric heaters

Permissions to check first

If seating, A-boards or planters sit on the public highway, Isle of Wight Council requires a pavement licence (£150 for one year or £225 for two) and may require a street furniture permit (£225) for A-boards and planters. Seating on the café's own leased land falls under the lease, and council-owned park or seafront land needs the landowner's consent. IsleConnect will check the lease and confirm the position with the council's licensing team before any outside purchases.

Costs are current UK retail and trade prices for about 24 covers, rounded to the nearest £10, mixing prices with and without VAT as published. Supplier quotes will replace them before purchase.

Evidence you can act on

We agree the success measures with you before launch, then report them simply each week.

Measure	How it is recorded	What it tells you
Covers and sales by service period	Till reports, compared with two baseline weeks before launch	Whether the morning service is growing
Featured dish orders	A till button or tally for each core dish	What sells, and what to drop
Average spend	Till reports	Whether the menu lifts spend or only moves it around
Actual food cost and waste	Joe's invoices and a daily waste note	Whether real margins match the costings
Service time and prep effort	Sample order-to-table times on busy mornings, and Joe's notes	Whether the kitchen can sustain it
Outside tables	A quick count at set times, with the weather	When to move to the next outside stage
How customers heard	One question at the till, and QR and campaign page visits	Which marketing works

Results are compared with similar trading days, with the weather, local events and any change in opening hours noted. That gives honest evidence without claiming every extra sale came from the campaign.

What your weekly summary looks like

Week 2 of 4 · Morning covers up on the baseline week · Top sellers: Full English, bacon Benedict, sausage and egg roll · Food cost within the costed range · Waste: hash potatoes over-prepped on Tuesday, batch size reduced · Outside tables full from 10am on dry days · Needs your decision: approve two posts for the weekend.

Illustrative layout. Real figures come from the café's till and Joe's records.

A clear package, a clear decision

Breakfast by the Sea pilot £950 • One owner-and-chef discovery session • One agreed menu and an approved café information record • One planned photo and video session of Joe's real food • One short hero reel and two cut-downs • Four ready-to-publish posts • One mobile campaign page with menu, directions and a clear call to action • One print-ready QR table card • Two consolidated rounds of amendments	Launch support, so you can step back £450 • Costing record for the core dishes updated with Joe's invoice prices • Supplier price sheet with change alerts during the pilot • Prep sheets and front-of-house briefing cards • Staff order tally and waste record • Weekly one-page owner summary and end-of-pilot review • Outside-space permissions check and stage plan

Prices exclude VAT where applicable. 50% payable on confirmation, balance on delivery of the end-of-pilot review. Printing, advertising spend, outside-space purchases and external production costs are agreed separately. All finished assets belong to the café. Licensed music, fonts and stock footage remain under their own licences.

Timetable from your go-ahead

Weeks 1-2	Weeks 3-6	Week 7	Afterwards
Prepare: kick-off, baseline figures, costings, Joe's trial service, photo session	30 days live: menu launched, posts and QR cards running, weekly summaries	Review: results, lessons and your decision on what to keep	Optional continuation, outside-space stage 2, heritage walk layer

Optional continuation, decided after the results: £750 a month for an initial three months

Each month: one capture session, eight posts, menu and campaign page updates, supplier price monitoring for the core dishes and a monthly results review. It ends automatically unless you choose to continue.

Dish costings

Portions are proposed starting points for Joe to confirm by weighing the first plates. Prices premium supermarket lines for bacon (Tesco Finest dry-cured, 30g rashers) and sausages (about 67g); trade prices (JJ Foodservice) for produce, beans, butter, oil, hash browns, pastrami and leaves; retail for eggs, bread and muffins. Potatoes assume 85% usable yield after peeling. Hollandaise: 250g butter, 3 yolks, half a lemon and 20ml vinegar, making about 330g.

Launch conditions carried over from the previous proposal

- Joe signs off each tested recipe, yield and portion weight before sale.
- The 14-allergen record is completed and checked against current product labels.
- Invoice prices replace the published prices used here.
- New dishes are added to the café's own Safer Food, Better Business or HACCP records.
- Menu wording matches what is actually served. Concept images are replaced by real photography before public use.
- No historical claim is made about Appley or the wartime coast without a reviewed source.

Concept images

A separate prompt pack covers each core dish, the café setting, the three outside-space stages, layout backgrounds for menus and QR cards and short motion clips. All concept images are labelled as AI-generated and are replaced by photography of Joe's food before any public use.
